

Presents:
"Women's Heritage Trail"

Delight in the sights and stories of the strong-minded women who made Miami happen. Hear about these early eccentric pioneers and their stories of adventure and hardship in the Florida wilderness that is now Coconut Grove, Miami, and Coral Gables.

Retrace the steps of the "Mothers of Miami" Julia Tuttle and Mary Brickell who battled a harsh and lonely existence along the shores of Biscayne Bay and decided to single-handedly change the history of the whole region by bringing the lifeline of Henry Flagler's railroad to South Florida.

Experience the hidden places where strong women worked quietly to bring culture and education to America's last frontier.

Explore the life of aviation-pioneer Amelia Earhart and learn of the foresight of environmentalist Marjory Stoneman Douglas. Find out how now-gleaming South Beach was saved from being ripped down by the voice and dramatic actions of preservationist Barbara Capitman.

Let us bring to life the story of murderous Joyce Cohen and many other women that made Miami's history so colorful and exciting.
